BOO!!!

Just seeing if anyone is awake
I am looking for a good leader who cares and wants to learn

Since no one can know it all, having time on my hands, and willing to share over fifty years of real life experiences, it is illogical why few to no-one at election time or otherwise puts forth the effort to learn more about the real world over coffee or on the QT.

1. Does pitting one special interest (more private sector jobs, larger tax base, full and proper use of natural resources, and on and on) against other special interests (protectionism, and on and on) create messes and irresolvable problems?
2. Do you know the day of routinely harvesting old-growth redwood is over?
3. Do you know how to grow a big tree?
4. Does minimum Timber Production Zoning acreage give more trees and open space?
5. With the demise of the harbor, shutdown of the timber industry as illustrated by Korbel sawmill shutdown, resistance to fixing a bad road situation and railroad idea, various protective actions, and shortage of tax base, is private source of taxes and funds drying-up in Humboldt County?
6. With Humboldt County using fifty percent or so taxpayer and other government money, is Humboldt County dependent on taxpayer and other government money?
7. Does experience and criticism help get things done right?
8. Is full and proper use of natural resources good for many species and humans and support preserving special places and special things?

Until someone answers my long list of questions applicable to this small corner of the world, I will continue being a pest, providing honest, open-minded, logical questions based on my experiences in the real world during public comment, in Times Standard, or in anyway I can.

Atlas is shrugging!

Respectfully,

Charles L. Ciancio
