DISCUSSION:
The federal Senate Appropriations Committee Chair Patrick Leahy on April 26, 2021 announced that Congress would restore, on a bipartisan basis, the authority to approve congressionally-directed funding items, otherwise known as “earmarks” or “community project funding” in the 12 major federal appropriations bill that comprise the 2022 budget. In practice this means the Appropriations Committee will be accepting member requests for earmarked projects for potential inclusion into the appropriations bills.

Senator Padilla on Wednesday, May 12 announced that he is accepting proposals from agencies throughout California for him to consider including in his list of requests for community project funding. Per Senator Padilla’s requirements, requests must have a nexus to federal funding, be of regional significance, should be able to be obligated quickly, and if more than one request is submitted they must be prioritized. The senator is requiring each project submitted receive two letters of support; one from the requesting party’s governing body and another party.

It should be noted that the practice of earmarking federal funds was banned by Congress in 2011 due in large part to concerns that it led to frivolous spending. In response, committee leaders are instituting a number of reforms to the previous earmarking process, including banning for-profit recipients and requiring members display their requests online. In addition to individual appropriations measures, congressional Democrats are allowing members to seek earmarks as part of other bills (e.g., surface transportation reauthorization, WRDA, etc.).

The House of Representative is also accepting members requests with additional rules, including limiting to 10 the number of requests members can submit. Humboldt County submitted 11 requests to Representative Jared Huffman in April and Huffman chose three county projects to include in his 10 requests - Hammond Trail Bridge Replacement (Attachment 1), Project Rebound - Update to the County's Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (Attachment 2), and Crisis Stabilization Unit (Attachment 3). Humboldt County was the only agency to have more than one project chosen by Rep. Huffman. Based on this feedback, and advice from the county's federal lobbyist, Paragon Government Relations, staff is recommending submitting the following prioritized list of projects to Sen. Padilla. Full project details are included in attachments 1-12.
