WHEREAS, Lemonade Day is a free, community-wide educational event providing children with the opportunity to learn and apply entrepreneurial thinking and create a foundation for success; and

WHEREAS, young people who participate in youth entrepreneurship feel a strong sense of control in their lives that says "I have influence over my own life and I can affect the person I become;" and

WHEREAS, Lemonade Day has a core philosophy of Spend, Save, and Share that is implemented by teaching children how to manage their money by establishing a budget, seeking investors, paying for their own expenses, saving part of their profits and giving back to the community; and

WHEREAS, nearly $40,000 in lemonade sales have been made on Lemonade Day since its inception, with over $10,500 going back to the community in donations from our young entrepreneurs; and

WHEREAS, Lemonade Day offers opportunities for families, businesses, schools, youth organizations, faith-based communities, neighborhoods, institutes of higher learning, economic development and government agencies to unite for a common purpose – to train the next generation of entrepreneurs; and

WHEREAS, young people who have looked at the world through a business owner's eyes make better employees down the road, and providing meaningful opportunities for youth to learn about practical economics is listed in the County's Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy; and
