DISCUSSION:

On Feb. 14, 2018, the Superior Court of Humboldt County accepted a stipulated judgment cooperatively negotiated by the California Attorney General (AG), the Humboldt County Sheriff's Office (HCSO) and the Humboldt County Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) (Attachment 2). The stipulated judgment marked the conclusion of an investigation by the AG after concerns were raised by local tribes and other community partners regarding inefficiencies and barriers to service in the Child Welfare Services (CWS) Emergency Response function. The requirements set forth in the judgment reflect collaborative efforts on the part of the AG, the HCSO and DHHS to improve outcomes for children and families in the county's child welfare system of care.

It is stated in the judgment that "within nine (9) months of the entry of Judgment, CWS shall make a good-faith effort to negotiate and develop protocols with the eight (8) federally recognized tribes in Humboldt County governing the process for collaboration that will ensure timely, shared decision-making relating to cases involving tribal children. These protocols shall include a mutually acceptable procedure for the resolution of disputes when tribal social workers and CWS are not in agreement regarding case plan decisions."

In September 2018, representatives from CWS and the Hoopa Valley Tribe Child and Family Services, along with tribal consultant, Olin Jones, began meeting to negotiate and develop a protocol that governs the process for collaboration between the two governments when Hoopa Tribal children are reported to CWS. The memorandum of understanding (MOU) outlines the collaboration process throughout a Hoopa Tribal child's involvement with the county's child welfare system of care to ensure shared decision making. On Dec. 6, 2018, the Chairman and Director from the Hoopa Valley Tribe signed the MOU.

If executed by the Humboldt County Board of Supervisors, this MOU will be the first government-to-government protocol governing collaboration between Humboldt County, by and through its Department of Health and Human Services, Child Welfare Services Division, and a federally recognized Tribe regarding regular and ongoing collaboration for tribal children involved in the child welfare's system of care.
