“I” watch and learn

Being 73 plus years of age, a rural professional field experienced forester, who has been a lead forester around woods workers, wood manufacturers, and those who sell wood products, who hunts and fishes, who has worked on ranches and wild lands, who has worked hard in California, and who has retained what he has learned, I see Trump and many of his supporters lack experience in the real world and have a lot to do. Listening to Trump and his supporters, I see them as citified, and I am skeptical they will do right regarding under-represented working folks and Rural America.

As often ignored, I repeatedly say the following: media, reservationists, protectionists, lousy PR by the timber industry, politicians (depending on the audience on all sides of the fence), legalese (which is all over the place), those who have it made, and Fourth Branch of Government (regulators) have divided USA real world realties, and the world is a mess. Trump and his supporters miss a lot regarding raising cattle, growing a tree, what is needed by many species like fish and humans, and with all the dead trees, seeing fire as unavoidable. Rest in Peace Rural America, and We Could Have Much Much Much More. Without good health, you have nothing. Without life's essentials like food, you are SOL. Disturbance can be beneficial for many species like fish. Ask why good farmers plow. Why do humans not watch and learn!

Maybe Trump can't change what is going to happen, and with no advanced notice about what USA is going to do and USA navy fleet Korean directional information, he is being a sly fox. We will see.

After being hit on the head a few times and seeing things go badly for many species and humans, I learned life is not fair and balanced for everything. I think a lot, and I see many species and humans paying the price for human stupidity. At the end of my life and in voting minority in California, many do not pay attention to what old folks like me have learned, and I have a hard time believing anything any more.

By contacting me, we can discuss many things I have learned. If you care, contact information has been provided. If you do not care, phooey on you.
