DISCUSSION:

While global economies work to rebound from the COVID-19 pandemic, many US economies face a slower recovery period. Of note, members of under-resourced communities (i.e., women, justice-involved persons, indigenous communities, communities of color) face chronic unemployment and some of the hardest economic impacts. While there are a variety of solutions, all are consistent in that they require collaboration between employers and those seeking employment, rigorous community resiliency and stable growth for impactful sectors (infrastructure, care economy and climate resiliency).

On July 5, 2021, the Department of Labor’s (DOL) Employment and Training Administration (ETA) Advisory System released Training and Employment Guidance Letter No. 2-22 providing funding under the DOL’s Good Jobs initiative. The County of Humboldt has been awarded $250,000 to work with Blue Lake Rancheria and Cal Poly Humboldt, DBA Humboldt State University Sponsored Programs Foundation (HSUSPF) to promote engagement for underserved communities and businesses as well as employment training activities.

Direct program implementation will occur through subcontracting these grant funds with HSUSPF to engage populations including women, justice-involved persons, indigenous communities, communities of color and the unemployed. HSUSPF will assist in job placement, program enrollment and retention, skill-based hiring, work-based learning opportunities, career path development and opportunity mapping. This program will also continue to engage with businesses by providing technical assistance on improving job quality, equity, update training priorities, solution-based coaching on industry standards and promotion of employee voice in the workplace. Lastly, these funds will also be used to perform analyses of high-performing employer needs, dislocated worker needs and gap analyses on equity deficits in the workforce.
