DISCUSSION:

The Board of Supervisors approved the Commercial Cannabis Land Use Ordinance (CCLUO) for both the inland and coastal areas on May 8, 2018 and directed staff to submit the coastal version to the Coastal Commission for certification. County staff and Coastal Commission staff worked together to identify suggested modifications to address Coastal Commission staff concerns the ordinance was not consistent with the County's coastal plans and the Coastal Act. On May 9, 2019 the Coastal Commission approved the ordinance with those modifications. For the ordinance to become effective, those modifications need to be accepted by the Board of Supervisors with recommendation from the Planning Commission.

When the Planning Commission reviewed the ordinance as acted upon by the Coastal Commission, they noted that there were changes from the inland ordinance. Staff explained that the primary differences involved limiting new cultivation in greenhouses to existing greenhouses on agricultural land, a Coastal Development Permit is required for all cannabis activities, no cultivation is allowed in commercial zones, there are larger agricultural parcel sizes required, and no diversionary sources of water is allowed. After considering these differences, the Planning Commission with a 5-0 vote (Newman, Bongio absent) recommended approval by the Board. Their resolution is in Attachment 4.

The necessary findings can be made for the Board of Supervisors to adopt the proposed CCCLUO with the modifications approved by the Coastal Commission. The draft resolution with these findings is included in Attachment 1. The updated draft ordinance with the Coastal Commission's suggested modifications is included in Attachment 2.

The nature of the changes made by the Coastal Commission did not change the regulatory intent or approach of the ordinance as crafted. Most of the changes are intended to increase clarity relative to regulations and policies specific to the Coastal Zone, some definitions were added, and the Mitigation Measures from the EIR were all completely written out as standards within the ordinance.
